Green Carnation Leads to Witness At Murder Trial

This is just like a story: Last March an Eldorado lady was walking to a bus station in St. Louis to return to her home. "Buy a flower, lady? Buy a flower lady?" the little urchin pleaded as she approached him.

The little fellow still had three green carnations—three broken green carnations. They were in poor shape for a sale.

But the lady bought a green carnation and pinned it in place. She went on and boarded her bus for home.

A young man was on that bus and was still there when the bus arrived at Carbondale. There everybody got off for about 14 or 20 minutes.

Reboarding, the woman looked down at her green carnation and seeing the sorry plight it was in, took it off and dropped it to the floor.

"You dropped your flower, lady," said the young man who also had boarded the bus at St. Louis that day. The seat next to him was empty; so she sat down and they chatted.

That was all there was to it until several weeks later. Did she remember a certain young man who was on a bus when she was returning from St. Louis? She remembered. Then came a subpoena to appear as a witness for the state in a murder trial away from here.

How had they got her name? The man on the bus couldn't remember her name but remembered the occupation of her husband in Eldorado. That made it easy to trace.

How did she fit into the picture? There had been a killing elsewhere—a man was charged with killing his wife. His defense was that he had killed her when he caught her with a certain man. This certain man he was accusing was the one she had talked to on the bus.

The man on the bus had an alibi but he needed proof; and the lady from Eldorado went to the scene of the trial. That was in June. She was kept in a hotel room for about a week, not able to talk to anybody.

"I just sat there all week leading the life of Riley," she related, but I couldn't visit, go any place or even call home."

She took the witness stand and substantiated the man's alibi that he couldn't have been with the woman who was killed at the time of the slaying. He was on the same bus with her out of St. Louis the day of the shooting.

And how was the lady from Eldorado so positive that she saw the man on the bus the same day of the killing miles away?

It was because of the St. Patrick's Day green carnation she had bought from the urchin that special day in March.

To Resume Work on Granger, Sloan Streets Monday

The Granger street repair project, suspended Wednesday by Engineer Robert R. Brown until a check could be made of the surfacing material, is expected to be resumed Monday.

Brown said the material that had been laid on Granger street was not curing as rapidly as it should; so the project was stopped until state engineers could see what is the matter.

State engineers from Springfield and Carbondale, who have control over the material used, came to town yesterday to inspect the street and test the material to see if they could determine what was holding up the curing process. They were expected back in town today.

Granger street is closed from Lincoln to Robinson, with cross streets open at the Sloan and College streets intersections, Brown said this morning.

The information, on file in county court, charges he willfully made an assault on his wife, Fern, by driving the automobile at her.

Tax Reform Measure Goes to White House After Senate Passage, 61-26

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's congressional scorecard showed another major victory today for final congressional passage of its sweeping tax revision bill.

The Senate approved the final version of the measure by a vote of 61 to 26 Thursday night and sent it to the White House for President Eisenhower's signature. The House took its final vote Wednesday.

From the administration viewpoint, passage of the tax bill was the second important achievement in as many days. The Senate completed action 24 hours earlier on the watered-down administration housing bill and sent it to the White House.

Both of these measures were on

Co-Pilot Credits Navy Training For Rescue of 11

QUONSET POINT, R. I. (AP)—The co-pilot of a patrol bomber which crashed 110 miles at sea credited Navy training today for the rescue of himself and 10 other servicemen.

Two of the men were from Illinois.

"Ditching and survival procedures were followed to a 'T' by all hands," Lt. S. Yale Brass of Brockton, Mass., said after being rescued with the others from life rafts in which they spent two hours until a rescue plane arrived.

The plane, a P2V Neptune patrol bomber, was on a routine training flight from Brunswick, Maine, naval air base when both engines failed 110 miles east of Montauk Point, N. Y., late Thursday.

Cdr. Arthur W. Jones of Woonsocket, R. I., the pilot, sent out a distress signal when the first engine conked out. The second failed moments later.

All 11 men aboard were in "good shape" despite the two hours they spent in rubber rafts awaiting rescue by an Air Force amphibian plane from the 46th Rescue Squadron at Westover Air Force Base, Mass.

The rescued included AD3 Lovell F. Boomgarden, Forreston, Ill., and AOAN John S. Bencottier, Decatur, Ill.

Boomgarden suffered minor injuries jumping from the sinking plane to a life raft.

Floyd Gwaltney Dies at Eldorado

Floyd Gwaltney, 67, veteran of World War I, died rather suddenly Thursday at 8:15 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Barton, 1116 Third street in Eldorado, where he had made his home for the past twelve years.

He had been bedfast only since Tuesday of this week.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Lucille Davidson, Dexter, Mo.; one sister, Mrs. Dora Nelson, Dale; a half brother, Walter Reeder, San Diego, Calif.; one stepbrother, Otis Reeder, Eldorado, and three grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the Bean and Tanner funeral home in Eldorado. The funeral will be in the funeral chapel Sunday at 2 p. m. Eld. Harrison Knight, pastor of the Primitive Baptist in McLeansboro, will officiate, and burial will be in Wolf Creek cemetery.

4 New Teachers At Ridgway High For Coming Term

Four new teachers have been employed for the coming school year in the Ridgway Community high school, Principal James Austin announced this week.

Mrs. Sue Hill, Eldorado, will teach English and Latin. Mrs. Hill will complete her work toward a B. S. degree this summer at SIU, Carbondale. She has served as a substitute teacher during the past few years at Galatia, Eldorado and Norris City. She replaces Bob Bargett.

Glen Rountree, a native of Mascoutah, has signed to replace William Woods as science teacher. Woods resigned at Ridgway to take a position at Shawneetown. Rountree has been teaching personnel and electronics at the USAF school, Scott Base. Prior to accepting that position, he taught at Ashley, Cobden and Marissa.

Mr. Rountree has his masters from Southern and is now working on his doctor's degree at Indiana university.

Mrs. Robert Walker, former teacher at Shawneetown, Thompsonville and Armstrong, will teach home economics at Ridgway. She is the wife of Robert Walker, teacher at Shawneetown. Mrs. Walker has her B. S. and Masters degrees from SIU. She replaces Myra Holt, Paducah.

A fourth teacher employed is Valjean Cashen, Vienna, Cashen, who served as principal of the grade school at Cropsey, Ill., for two years, will be in charge of the guidance, tests and measurements and counseling program in the Ridgway school system. This is a newly created position in the school.

Workmen have been busy this summer re-plastering and repainting the various rooms of the grade school building. The work is now nearing completion.

Designer Christian Dior's 'Flat Look' Brings Protests from Men, Busty Beauties

PARIS (AP)—Dress designer Christian Dior's "Flat Look," with a special girdle to take the bounce out of bosoms, replaced politics today as the Frenchman's favorite topics.

Dior's bold effort to flatten the bustline forced a decision between native pride at producing a headliner and shame at fashioning a "wall-flower."

"I'll miss it, (the bust)," was the general reaction of the Parisian male.

A roar of protest went up from false manufacturers.

"How will a girl explain where it all went so suddenly," one manufacturer complained.

"Predicts Rejection"

"This look will not have a large success with those who have something to show," predicted Jacques Morlainen, the Minsky of Paris.

Most men in Paris refused to dignify Dior's whittling down of the female form.

"We've been fooled before," some said.

Dior's skirts remained short, just below the knee, but he prudishly covered the throat.

He shifted the spotlight from bosom to hips with two seams, running from shoulder to hip just outside the bust, giving a flat look.

Waists are fitted but not cinched. The skirt flares below the waist, focusing the eye on the hips and thighs.

President Hopes Meek Will Win In Senate Race

White House Reveals Exchange of Letters To GOP Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House disclosed today that President Eisenhower has expressed the hope that Joseph T. Meek, Republican, will win the Senate seat held by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.).

The White House released an exchange of letters between Mr. Eisenhower and the Illinois senatorial candidate.

"I look forward with anticipation," the President wrote on July 27, "to greeting you on Jan. 3 as the junior United States senator from Illinois."

Meek had told the President, "You can count on my loyalties and my support as the junior senator from Illinois."

Meek also said "The people of Illinois are looking forward with great interest and keen anticipation to your visit to the Illinois State Fair in August."

"There is no question in my mind," he told the President, "but that the boost your presence will give us will assure the success of our entire ticket from top to bottom."

Meek said he will be eager to see Mr. Eisenhower at the fair because "I well remember the encouragement you gave me when Sen. Dirksen and I took a half-hour of your valuable time early in May."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) now is the junior senator from Illinois. If Douglas loses his seat, Dirksen will become the senior senator. In his primary campaign Meek described himself as a supporter of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

The text of President Eisenhower's letters:

"Thank you very much for your letter of July 23.

"Since this administration took office, it has sought to secure the enactment of a program clearly in the best interests of the people—a program securing maximum security for the country and now properly for every citizen. It is now apparent that most of this program will be adopted by Congress. I am delighted to have your personal assurance that I can count on your loyalty and support in furthering this program and the objectives and purposes of this administration.

"May I say further, that I look forward with anticipation to greeting you on Jan. 3 as the junior United States senator from Illinois."

Suffers Injuries When Auto Hits Tree

Robert Russell of Galatia was brought to the Harrisburg hospital last night suffering injuries to his right arm and left leg, sustained about 10 p. m. when his car ran off the road and hit a tree.

State Policeman Guthrie Alexander said the Russell car was a total loss in the accident, which occurred on Route 34 between the end of Thompsonville.

Russell told Alexander that a car which sideswiped him and kept going forced him off the pavement.

Senate Votes to Ban U. S. Research, Development Of Minerals Abroad

By United Press

The Senate pushed the $300,000,000 foreign aid bill toward passage today.

First, however, it overrode administration objections and voted 49-40 to ban research and development abroad on important minerals.

The ban was moved by Senator George W. Malone (R-Nev.). Malone denounced overseas research on minerals and metals for the U. S. stockpile as an "international WPA."

Malone said the program would cripple further an already ailing American mining industry.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said the White House opposed Malone's proposal. Voting for the ban were 28 Republicans, 20 Democrats, and Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind-Ore.).

Coffee Report Angers Members Of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Angry members of Congress today denounced wholesale coffee buyers and speculators for the sharp price hikes of recent months but few expected a congressional crack-down this year.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan (D-Mo.) said the report proves that U. S. coffee drinkers have taken a "merciless beating" on the basis of a "phony shortage which never existed." Yet she said "for some mysterious reason" the House Agriculture committee has bottled up efforts to meet the situation.

The congressional reaction followed publication of a Federal Trade Commission report Thursday blaming "irregularities" in the coffee market for the recent price spiral. But it said prices should go down now, "if the law of supply and demand is permitted to operate."

Legislation Pigeonholed

The Senate twice has passed legislation to clamp federal controls on the New York Coffee Exchange. The first measure was pigeonholed by the House Agriculture committee and the second, tacked on to a measure to control the onion market, is still awaiting committee action.

Members agreed that the House could approve the legislation, if it stays in session long enough. But some apparently were not convinced by the FTC report that government curbs would solve the problem.

In its 1,100 page report on a seven-month investigation, the FTC said government curbs on the coffee market appear to be the only answer to unreasonable price spirals. The commission said it is studying the laws to determine if it can take any action to correct the abuse.

The FTC denied industry contentions that an unusual summer frost in Brazil last July was responsible for the price upswing.

Bitter Debate Expected On Resolution

Three Sweeping Charges Made by Vermont Republican

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ralph E. Flanders asked the Senate today to condemn the conduct of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy on three sweeping charges.

The 73-year-old Vermont Republican touched off what was expected to be a bitter debate by asking the Senate to censure its stormiest member.

Flanders in a speech for the Senate charged that:

1. McCarthy showed his "personal contempt" for the whole Senate by refusing to answer questions of a subcommittee which investigated his financial affairs in 1952. He said unless McCarthy answers, the Wisconsin Republican "can scarcely avoid being called a 'Fifth Amendment' senator."

2. McCarthy sent Roy M. Cohn and G. David Schine to Europe as investigators in the spring of 1953 and their "frivolous and irresponsible" antics caused a "calamity" of the United States government.

"The nation's honor has been compromised by the senator's irresponsible staff," Flanders said.

3. McCarthy "has an habitual contempt for people . . . so all-pervasive that it appears whenever we hear his words or see him in action."

Flanders said McCarthy used language to Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker "that no one with any human decency would have ever used—particularly one whose own military career is, according to reports, the reverse of illustrious."

Cites Attack on Judge

He added that McCarthy last Tuesday, in seeking to explain the "sweet reasonableness" of his investigating subcommittee procedures, charged that Judge Dorothy Kenyon of New York was a Communist, but did not offer to prove it or let her disprove it.

Flanders said to let such serious charges "hang over the victim for the rest of her life . . . is a direct insult to the personality and soul of the victim."

Flanders laid down his "bill of particulars" against McCarthy in a speech, but his proposed resolution of censure contained no such details.

The resolution as he proposed to submit it read:

"Resolved, that the conduct of the senator from Wisconsin, Mr. McCarthy, is unbecoming a member of the United States senate, is contrary to senatorial traditions, and tends to bring the Senate into disrepute, and such conduct is hereby condemned."

Flanders said any senator would find "an inexhaustible mine of incidents" from which to draw his own bill of particulars against McCarthy.

Gov't Steps Up Spending to Aid Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials are confident that business will improve sharply this fall.

But to make double sure, they are stepping up federal spending to stimulate business activity.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks gave that summary of the Eisenhower administration's economic policy at a news conference Thursday.

At the same time, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell forecast a rise in employment and a corresponding drop in the number of jobless by September or October.

All indications point to the "employment situation getting better," he told a separate news conference.

Aim to Nudge

Weeks predicted a "real pickup" in business before winter. But he disclosed an administration program to speed up federal spending to offset the decrease in defense expenditures which followed the Korean truce. He said its aim was to "nudge" business into greater activity.

Weeks said, however, there is no plan to increase total federal spending during the current fiscal year which began July 1. He said Monday that would not have been spent until later in the year, will be spent in the earlier months.

The program will apply particularly to construction of highways, civilian airports and ships and textile contracts, he said.

As the start on a national 385 million dollar ship construction program, Weeks announced government approval of a 65 million dollar program by the American President Lines with the aid of a $12,800,000 government subsidy.

Dies Near Norris City

Mrs. Polly Ann Wheeler, 77, wife of Sum Wheeler, died yesterday at 9 a. m. at her home one mile south of Norris City.

The body will remain at the Turner funeral home until Saturday at which time it will be taken to the Prospect church in Hamilton county for the funeral at 2 p. m. Rev. Leo Walton will officiate, and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Army Warrant Officer To Be Hanged for Murdering His Wife

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—A 32-year-old Army warrant officer, Bernard J. O'Brien, will be hanged Saturday for murdering his wife in Germany more than two years ago.

Officials of the federal prison said O'Brien, of San Antonio, Tex., would be executed at the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing, probably shortly after midnight.

O'Brien was convicted by an Army court martial in June, 1952 and the death sentence was approved by President Eisenhower.

Mrs. O'Brien was killed with an Army entrenching tool. O'Brien put her body in a car and smashed the car into a tree in an attempt to make the death appear accidental.

The Tax Revision Plan

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

The President's huge tax revision bill, a major item in his legislative program, appears to be past the worst hurdle. Both Mr.
Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey can look with satisfaction on the accomplishment.

Though the measure extends relief to many types of individuals and most corporations, it is not specifically a tax reduction bill.
The general purpose was to provide long needed revamping of the whole tax structure, to wipe out
or minimize inequities and discouragements to economic initiative.

The most controversial of these
is the double taxation of stock dividends, first as corporate income
and later, after distribution, as individual income.

Under the compromise agreed to
by a House-Senate committee,
the taxpayers henceforth would be able to deduct the first $50 of dividend income, and also subtract 4
per cent of their remaining dividend income directly from the tax bill they would otherwise pay.

This is not a perfect solution,
nor even as liberal as the House
version, but it is a step toward getting rid of a long-standing inequity.

Democratic efforts to label this
a "rich man's tax bill" because of this one feature hardly seem likely to impress many people.

There has been one general tax reduction already in 1954. In the judgment of the President and his financial advisers, the government
cannot afford another $600 million.
The revenue loss of $1,363,000,000
in the revision measure is the inescapable price of eliminating ancient maladjustments in the country's tax set-up.

Besides the dividend relief, the bill would allow many new or bigger tax deductions by average
citizens for child-care expenses,
medical expenses, retirement income, sick benefits, dependents
who earn more than $600 a year,
soil conservation outlays, and other items.

It is notable that while some of his party colleagues are trying to make political hay out of the dividend feature, Democratic Senator George of Georgia, long recognized as a genuine tax expert in the upper chamber, declares that "on the whole it's a very good bill." He said it has a lot of dubious features, but the good outweigh the bad.

If the object of the proposal were
to lighten the corporation, it would hardly contain—as it does—a provision to put corporate income taxes
back up to 52 per cent from 47
per cent, to which level they dropped April 1. In fact, the 52 per cent rate is retroactive to April,
thus in effect cancelling the reduction.

Imperfect though it may be, the tax revision bill goes far to fill a long-felt need. All hands, from the White House down, deserve congratulations for bringing it to the finish line in Congress.

Looking a Gift Dragon in the Mouth

The WASHINGTON
MERRY-GO-ROUND
BY DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Two Senators Who Will Vote
On McCarthy Voted To Cen-
sure The Last "Dishonorable" Senator; Knowland Agrees To Flanders' Resolution Debate;
Democrats Suggest A "Flexible Flanders."

WASHINGTON.—Just two members of the current Senate were members of the 1929 Senate that took the last vote of censure
against one of their own members.
They are: George of Georgia and Hayden of Arizona, both Democrats.

The man they both voted as bringing "dishonor and disrepute
on the Senate" exactly 25 years ago was Hiram Bingham of Connecticut who had placed Charles
L. McNamara, of the Connecticut
Manufacturers Association on his Senate office staff and let him sit
in a meeting of the Senate Finance committee.

The standards of the Senate
seemed considerably higher in those days than during the current debate over McCarthy of Wisconsin. One year before, the Senate had voted to expel two of its own members, Vane of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois, for spending too much money in their election campaigns.

Senators at that time felt keenly
about the prestige and dignity
of the body to which they belonged.
"The view I take of the question," one year before, the Senate, "is simply this: that the official act of each one of us has a public quality, and that act is either in the interest of the public good or it is contrary to the interest of the public. It either promotes confidence in the processes
of government or it tends to weaken public confidence in the processes of government."

Senator Bingham argued elo-quently in his own defense.

"No senator is to be criticized,"
he said, "if he chooses to place
members of his family in these eternal positions—if he appoints
cousins, nieces, sons or daughters."

Senator Smoot of Utah, a Republican stalwart, introduced a resolution calculated to spare
Bingham somewhat. It omitted
his name. But George and Hayden, among others, were opposed.

"My interpretation of the resolution is this," said George, referring to the Smoot amendment,
"and with this understanding I shall vote against the substitute,
because I regard that as meaningless, something like the poetry
at the head of Kipling's chapters,
it has nothing to do with the real issue that has been raised here."

"We are concerning ourselves
with the public morals, with the public interest, the quality of official conduct and act, the manner
in which that conduct or that act
affects the public welfare."

The vote, 54 to 22, decided that Senator Bingham's action was
"contrary to good morals and senatorial ethics and tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and dis-

repute, and such conduct is hereby condemned."

Note — Twenty years later, a Democrat, President Harry Truman, performed a great act of rehabilitation by appointing Bingham, a Republican, as chairman of the top loyalty board. Bingham had learned his lesson. He acquitted himself well.

"FLEXIBLE FLANDERS" Vermont's rugged Sen. Ralph Flanders, once head of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, who owns
a thriving tool factory and has developed 29 industrial patents, good naturedly complained that Sen.
Lyndon Johnson has been pestering
him.

Johnson has advised Flanders
not to be too rigid, to permit some give-and-take regarding his resolution of censure against Senator McCarthy.

The persuasive senator from Texas was so persistent with the Vermont senator from Vermont
that Flanders remarked to a friend: "It looks like Lying-Down
Lyndon wants me to be Flexible Flanders."

KNOWLAND REVERSES

Senator Knowland's buttonholing
of GOP senators to stifle the Flanders resolution has not him an something of a hot spot. For too many senators remember how, no
later than February 24, Knowland announced that the Senate should abandon its present system under which senior members of the committee become chairmen.

"They should be chosen, instead," Knowland said, "in accord with the policies of the majority party."

No man has bucked the majority party more than the senator from Wisconsin. He has pilloried its secretary of the army, criticized
its secretary of state, set himself
above the President.

Nevertheless, Knowland has now
finally agreed to let the Senate debate on a censure resolution by a fellow Republican.

MCCARTHY-GO-ROUND

Paul Hoffman, the Republican
who rebuilt Europe as head of the Marshall Plan, has been patiently
trudging round the Senate office building telling Republican senators they must vote against Mc-Carthy and for the Flanders resolution. . . . Senator Potter of Michigan, who had the courage to vote against McCarthy on the firing of Roy Cohn and Don Surine, says
privately he won't vote to censure
McCarthy unless his GOP colleague, Homer Ferguson of Michigan, also votes that way. Reason:
Ferguson is up for re-election and Potter doesn't want to embarrass
him. . . . Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, McCarthy's colleague, plans to invoke Rule 12 during the Flanders debate and won't vote one way or the other regarding his colleague from Wisconsin. Rule 12 permits a senator from the same state to avoid taking a stand on a colleague. Wiley will abstain

despite the fact he knows McCarthy is working against him behind his back. . . . It was interesting that the Communist Daily Worker took the trouble to report one of Senator McClellan's primary campaign
speeches down in Stuttgart, Ark.
It quoted him as saying that "the McCarthy matter is not of such importance that it should be permitted to block legislation on important matters." (The Daily Worker frequently distorts.)
Flanders conferred with McClellan twice before he postponed his earlier resolution of censure. Mc-Clellan told his Arkansas colleague, Senator Fulbright, "Bill, you know I can't go against the Flanders resolution."

Churchill Wins Endorsement Of Suez Decision

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister
Winston Churchill put down a revolt within his party Thursday night and emerged today with overwhelming endorsement of his decision to evacuate the Suez Canal zone.

The mighty old man from No. 10
Downing Street personally intervened in a great debate in the House of Commons and won all but a handful of Tory votes on a terse confidence motion.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden,
architect of the pact which ends a 72-year British occupation of the zone, strengthened his position as Churchill's heir apparent with an eloquent speech defending his policy
on Egypt.

The motion said simply that
"This House approves the heads of agreement negotiated in Cairo on July 27 between Her Majesty's government and the government of Egypt."

It carried by a vote of 257 to 26.
Most of the opposition Laborites
backed up Churchill by abstaining.
Several backbench Laborites voted in support of the motion and 12
"rebel" Conservatives changed
their minds at the last minute and endorsed the Anglo-Egyptian pact.

Eisenhower Signs Four Bills

WASHINGTON (UP)—President
Eisenhower has signed into law
four bills:

To authorize a $250,000 study of possible government uses of international television.

Requiring registration of printing
and duplicating equipment of all kinds in the custody of Communist front groups, their officers or members or subsidiaries.

To expand the mineral development of leased public lands.

Allowing the Commodity Credit
Corp. to make cut-rate sales on small lots of agricultural surplus stocks which are in danger of spoilage.

Rites Saturday at New Haven for Accident Victim

The funeral of Bernard Simmons,
New Haven youth who was killed
Wednesday night in an auto-motorcycle collision on Route 141 between Omaha and Cottonwood, will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Green Tabernacle in New Haven.
Rev. Gilliard Tom and Rev.
Henry Davis will officiate, and
burial will be in Union Ridge cemetery.
The body now lies in state at the family residence.

AEC Stockpiles Atomic, H-Bombs at Record Clip To Keep Ahead of Russia

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission reported today it is stockpiling H-bombs and A-bombs at a record clip under orders from President Eisenhower
to keep ahead of Russia in the nuclear arms race.

The AEC said in its 16th semi-annual report to Congress that it is producing atomic materials at an all-time high rate. It summed up this spring's giant island-sinking H-bomb tests at the Bikini, Eniwetok proving ground as "successful."

Noting that nuclear weapons
stockpile, growing rapidly in total numbers, reflects a trend of increased variety and versatility of weapons.

"Development of a 'family of
weapons' has extended the military usefulness of available fissionable material."

Report New Progress

"Paralleling fission weapon development since 1950, there has been in progress a concerted development effort on thermonu-
clear weapons (H-bombs)."

"In view of important progress
made in fission and thermonuclear weapon development program, a national policy decision was made to take every advantage of such progress to assure that the United States maintains its superiority."

"The President directed the commission to continue to produce atomic weapons during 1954 consistent with this decision."

Other highlights of the report:

1. Progress in expansion of plant facilities has boosted the capital investment in atomic energy to $5,700,000,000. So far, upwards of $12,000,000,000 has been appropriated for nuclear arms and power.

2. The AEC is striving through a five-year reactor program to bring nuclear power costs down to where they can compete with coal, oil, and water power. Atomic material costs already have been brought to a record low. Atomic power will become competitive
with other kinds "in the foreseeable future."

3. All persons exposed to radiation as a result of the huge March 1 H-bomb test at Bikini—a blast
unofficially estimated as equal in power to some 14,000,000 tons of exploding TNT—have recovered

or are improving satisfactorily.

Nautilus Nearly Finished

4. The atomic engine for the submarine Nautilus, launched Jan. 21,
is nearly completed. A full-scale
land model of the nuclear power plant for the submarine Sea Wolf
also is almost completed. Progress is being made in development of a third, improved, sub engine, and an atomic plant for airplanes.

5. It still is "unwise," five months after the March 1 H-bomb
explosion, to eat fish from Bikini
or Eniwetok lagoons without first making a radioactivity check. But fish caught elsewhere in the Marshall Islands or the open ocean
are safe.

6. The AEC said it is willing to make one of its test explosions
a public shot for civil defense purposes. It would gauge the effect of atomic violence on buildings
and shelters.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son
and brother, Billy Pickering who passed away July 30, 1952.
If all the world were ours to give
We would give it yes, and more,
To see your smiling face again
Come smiling through our door.
Sometimes it is hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in his wisdom God had planned
Beyond our power to see.

In the photo at the upper left, Dr. Irvin Peithman, SIU archeologist (center) and students from a half dozen colleges are shown opening the south half of the mound; at upper right are bones of three Indians exposed by the workers. Zink, Chicago, and Ertha Ann Johnston, Granite City, who are using small paint brushes, spoons and a pick to carefully uncover partly exposed skeletal bones of a double burial; at lower right Mrs. Maurine Field is shown holding skull bones of one of the skeletons removed from the mound. Condemn McCarthy Conduct: Flanders

been minor and comparatively unimportant."

Flanders then ran down a long list of Communists indicted or sent to prison, and said McCarthy had no part in them.

He said the Justice Department has indicted 103 persons and convicted 72 under the Smith Act, which makes it a felony to advocate overthrowing the government by force or violence. Another 28 are on trial or awaiting trial.

"This is an impressive list, but the senator made no contribution to this successful roundup of Communists," he said.

Flanders then ticked off individual cases including the Amerasia case, Alger Hiss, William Remington, atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, Harry Gold, Judith Coplon, and Ben Gold. He said McCarthy had no part in them.

One Feather in Bonnet

"A major feather in the war bonnet of the senator, said Flanders, is the case of Owen Lattimore, Johns Hopkins University professor indicted for perjury as a result of the Institute of Pacific Relations investigation. Lattimore has not been convicted. Most of the indictment has been thrown out, but the case is still pending.

"Here we have the really serious and effective work of ridding the country of communism done by others without the blowing of trumpets or the beating of drums," said Flanders. "It has been done quietly, efficiently and thoroughly by the FBI and the Department of Justice."

He said McCarthy's work had brought "some desirable dismissals" but that McCarthy to his knowledge "has never claimed credit for a single successful prosecution."

Flanders said "the pink dentist" case—Maj. Irving Peress, honorably discharged after refusing to tell McCarthy whether he was a Communist—set off the Army-McCarthy hearings "whose net result to date has been the departure of Mr. (Roy M.) Cohn," subcommittee counsel.

"He said the long hearings might never have been held if Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens had not tried to "appease" McCarthy. "I think one may say with some assurance that there are three who cannot be appeased," Flanders said. "They are, or have been, Hitler, the Kremlin, and the senator."

He said even McCarthy's successful discoveries of Communists have been the result of "muscling in" on the authorized work of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Charges Proper Work Neglected
He said McCarthy has neglected his proper work of investigating the operations of the government to turn up graft and corruption.

Flanders told newsmen earlier today that his chances of getting the censure resolution approved are "better than good." He also said he expects some retaliation from McCarthy but did not "know what form in which it will come."

Flanders' formal resolution marked the first time in 25 years that the Senate has been called upon to denounce one of its members. There had been no indication whether McCarthy would appear on the floor during debate on Flanders' motion—but he could speak if he did. And there is no rule to prevent him from voting on the Flanders' resolution should it come to a vote.

Expedition Exposes 15 Skeletons at Indian Burial Ground Near Cave-in-Rock

By ALTA PORTER

Digging at three levels, the archeological expedition from the Illinois State Archeology Museum has exposed 15 skeletons in the Hopewell Indian burial mound near the Ohio river north of Cave-in-Rock on the Kaegi farm.

Dr. Thorne Deuel, director of the Illinois State Museum, has identified artifacts found in the mound as those of the Hopewell Indian culture and estimate them to be 2000 years old, according to Melvin Fowler, curator of anthropology of the Illinois state museum who is in charge of the excavation.

Artifacts include spear points, bead and copper ornaments, and seashells. Peculiar to the Hopewell culture are the copper disks put together with a spiral which were riveted together in some way, and fitted into a split earlobe. Mr. Fowler said. That the copper disks were ear ornaments is evidenced by the area of the ear on skeletons uncovered being stained green by the metal.

One pottery vase was removed intact, Mr. Fowler said.

Nine of the skeletons have been moved to the state museum, where they will be reconstructed by zoologists and anthropologists who will determine the age and the sex of the people at the time of burial. Speculation as to whether some of the burials were sacrificial and whether some of the skulls were trophies of tribal wars is much discussed among the diggers.

Arm bracelets composed of shells from the Gulf of Mexico have been uncovered. Beads of bone or shell are found frequently. All of the uncovered items are sacked separately, and cataloged carefully as spoons, fruit knives with their serrated curved blades and paint brushes are used by the archeologists to carefully uncover without damaging each find.

The bones deteriorate rapidly as they are exposed to air, and the crumbling fragments are carefully cleaned and packed together for reconstruction when they reach the state museum.

Gov't Reports Increase In Strikes for June

WASHINGTON (U) — The government today reported a June increase in the number of workers idled by strikes, lockouts and other work stoppages.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said 550 work stoppages, involving 280,000 workers, were in effect last month, compared to 500 stoppages involving 230,000 workers in May.

James Russell Lowell was the first editor of the Atlantic Monthly.

lied to have been the archaic village is also under way. It is north of the burial ground and nearer the river.

An average of 20 people visit the mound daily, and they come from all parts of Illinois. Last week some of the people on the Ozark tour heard about the excavation from Dr. Irvin Peithman, archeologist from Southern Illinois university. George M. Davis, Decatur, a publisher, and LaFayette Funk, Shirley, Ill., of the Funk seed company, who belongs to the National Rock collectors club, accompanied Dr. Peithman to the dig.

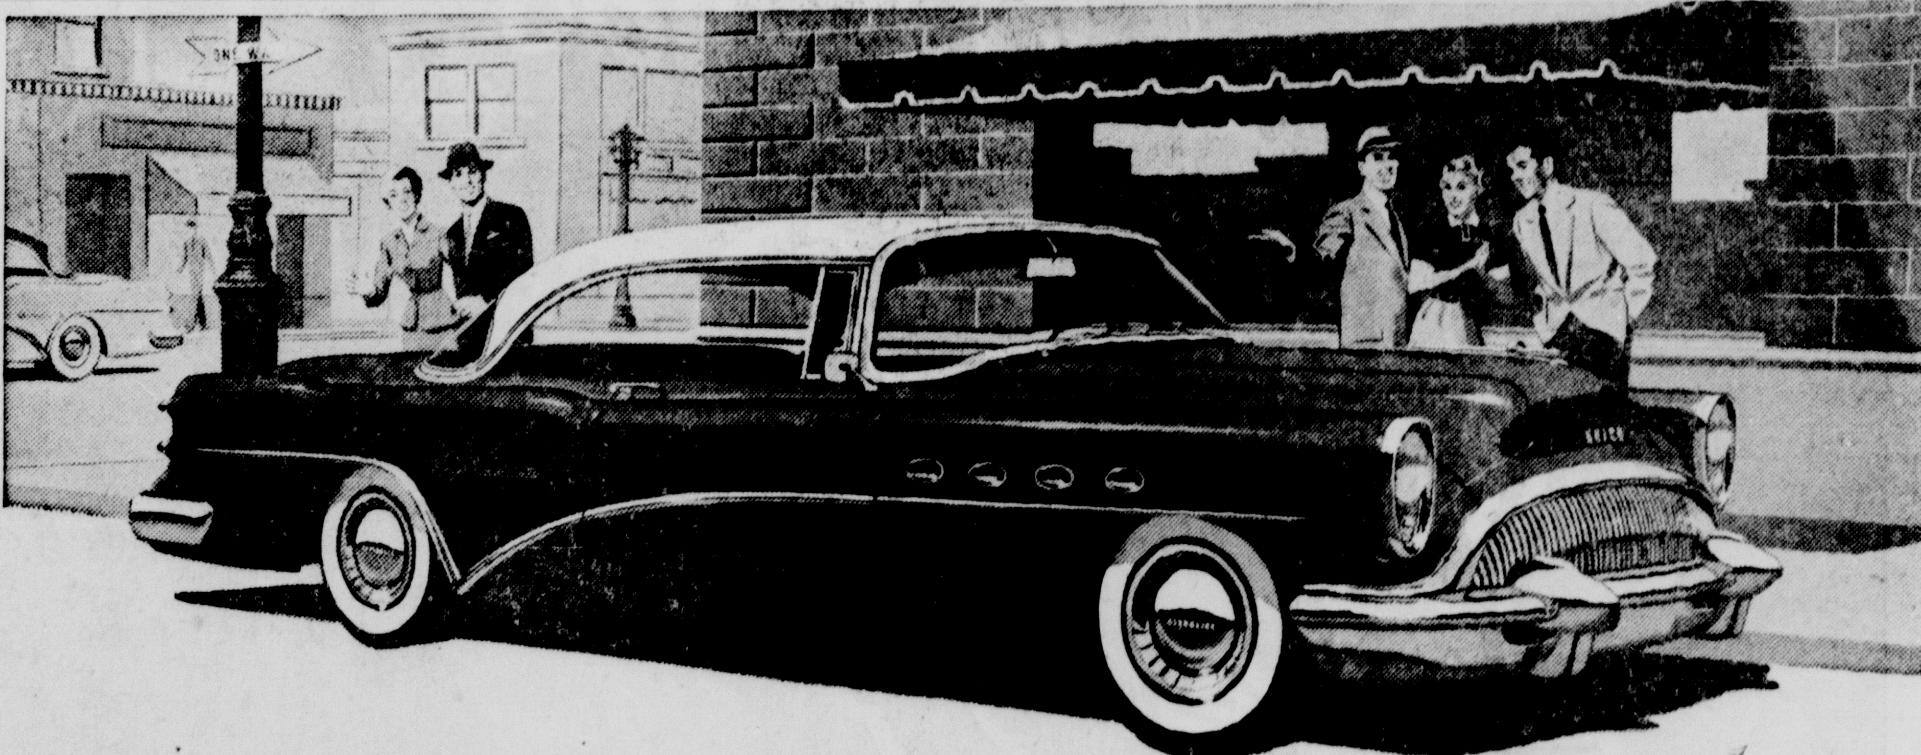

Dr. Peithman was one of the most enthusiastic diggers at the mound last week. His fast swinging mattock gave the boys who shoveled and trundled the earth loosed from the mound a good workout and had them calling for rest periods.

Others at the dig are Miss Ertha Ann Johnston, Granite City, Miss Maurine Field, Charleston, Janet E. Zink, Chicago, Peter Cameron, Clinton, N. Y., Ivan Read, Danville, Richard L. Royer, Kewanee, R. Paul Kutsche Jr., Charlotte, Mich., and Russell Carter, Springfield, and the camp cook, Arthur Nissen, Grandin, N. D. Dr. Paul Parmalee, state zoologist, has also been an interested visitor.

Their camp is at a school building west of Rt. 1, in the vicinity of the mound, which is east of Rt. 1, and just at the foot of a section of highway which is cut between walls of earth on each side, as one travels south toward Cave-in-Rock.

Natives of the area have been most cooperative. It was through the leads furnished by Mr. Kaegi that the excavation was started.

TAKE a look, if you please, at the car and the styling that are changing historic sales standings.

Take a look at the beauty and the buy called Buick—the car that is forging ahead to new sales heights in the 1954 market.

Take a look at the new best seller that has moved into the "Big Three" of the nation's top sales leaders—into that very exclusive circle that for two decades has held only the so-called "low-price three."

For today, as national sales figures for the first five months reveal, Buick is outselling all other cars in America except two of these "low-price three." And each new month firms Buick's new position.

It takes solid worth to bring this about—a lot more automobile per dollar in Buick than in other cars.

But it also takes the glamorous new tomorrow styling that is Buick today. It takes the highest V8 horsepowers, Series for Series, in all Buick history. It takes the room and comfort and ride and handling that are Buick's proud tradition.

And it takes a range of cars to satisfy a wide range of people—with prices that most people can well afford. So you find the low-priced SPECIAL, the high-powered CENTURY, the extra-spacious SUPER, and the custom-built

ROADMASTER—the four big reasons for Buick's tremendous sales success.

Come in for a demonstration and you'll see what we mean.

With the years-away styling of this glamor car, you'll be way ahead at resale time. And right now you're money ahead with the big trade-in allowance our volume sales can bring you. Drop in this week.

Blue Shield to Increase Benefits; No Extra Cost

The Blue Shield medical-surgical plan of Illinois medical service will increase its allowance to members . . . at no extra cost to them . . . E. M. Burrows, branch manager for this area of this Blue Shield Plan, announced today. The new benefits will become effective on August 15, 1954.

This is the second time in three years that this Blue Shield Plan has built up reserves to a point where benefits could be increased.

New benefits include: Increases in in-hospital medical care maximums. Medical allowances toward a physician's daily visits to see members in the hospital . . . who do not have operations . . . are being boosted from a maximum of $180 per calendar year so that a member may receive as much as $220 in a 70-day period.

erations. Allowances for these operations previously were made only in the hospital. The list includes removal of tonsils and adenoids, suturing of wounds, removal of foreign bodies by incision, and excision of tumors and cysts.

An allowance of $5 for emergency accident care toward a physician's services in the hospital, when no other Blue Shield benefits apply.

An increase in Blue Shield surgical benefits for cases of two unrelated operations in different parts of the body which are performed at the same time, such as a gall bladder operation and a bunion operation, or removal of an appendix and a tumor in some other part of the body. The Plan will now provide the regular Blue Shield allowance for each up to a total maximum of $200.

Increase in anesthesia allowance. X-rays and Pathology also have been changed over from a calendar year to a 90-day basis to give greater benefits to members.

U. S. Charges Studied Insult By Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angry officials charged today that Red China had leveled a "studied insult" at the United States in the latest diplomatic tug-of-war over Red attacks on Allied planes in the South China Sea.

Strong language was used in official quarters to condemn the Communist regime's rejection of twin American protests against the shooting down of a British airliner and a Red fighter attack on U. S. rescue planes.

Officials predicted that a strong new American protest would be China-bound very soon.

What angered American authorities particularly was the way in which the Red Chinese rejected the American protests. The Communists sent the two protests back rather than accept or reply to them.

Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Chang Han-Fu listened to British diplomat Humphrey Trevelyan read the stern American notes.

The matter was handled through the British since this country does not recognize the Peiping government. Later, the State Department said, "A member of the Chinese staff handed the notes to a member of Mr. Trevelyan's staff, saying that Mr. Trevelyan had forgotten to take them."

An American diplomat said this was a virtually unheard of procedure outside the Communist world. "This is a Communist improvement," he remarked wryly, "on the traditional practices of diplomacy."

The basis for a second protest, according to officials, will be the fact that the United States under international law has the responsibility of protecting the rights of its citizens. Three Americans were killed and three wounded when the airliner was shot down.

The fact that the Americans were on a British plane does not relieve the United States of its responsibility. One official said that Red China's complaints about American intervention in the case were "preposterous."

Werner Named Probation Officer

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Carl Werner, Danville, a former U. S. marshal, today was appointed a probation officer for the Eastern Illinois Federal Court District.

Judge Casper Platt announced he was naming Werner to replace Fred Howard, Paris, who had held the post since May, 1929. Werner will take office Monday and serve under Marshal K. McKinney, East St. Louis, the chief probation officer for the district.

Werner, who has 15 years service in federal offices, resigned as U. S. marshal last January and was succeeded by Vernon Woods, Metropolis.

Rhee Aide Orders Red Members of UN Group to Leave

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — South Korea's Provost Marshal Won Yong Duk told Communist members of the Neutral Nations Armistice Commission today to get out of South Korea immediately.

Won, who almost wrecked the Korean truce talks by turning loose 27,000 North Korean war prisoners in June, 1953, warned the Polish and Czech commission members they would face "appropriate measures" if they remained in South Korea.

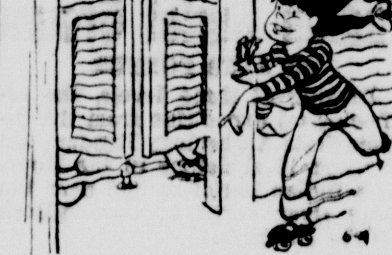

The provost marshal, regarded as President Syngman Rhee's hatchet man, declared the four-nation neutral commission "automatically lost its jurisdiction" with the failure of Korean peace talks at Geneva.

Recommend Early Illinois Designs for Turnpike Buildings

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton today announced approval of a recommendation that restaurants and other structures on the planned Illinois turnpike system follow architectural patterns of early Illinois.

The recommendation for the building designs was made by Chauncey McCormick, a member of the three-man toll roads commission.

Indian Infield Lousy—Stengel; Know Where to Play—Lopez

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — When George Strickland went out, hit on the chin by a thrown ball, Casey Stengel expressed the opinion that the Cleveland infield was the "lousiest" he ever saw in the majors.

"None of 'em can move five feet," said the manager of the Yankees.

Periesser Stengel was looking at Vic Wertz, an outfielder, at first base; Bobby Avila at second; Sam Dente, nothing more than adequate at shortstop; and Al Rosen, hardly a Jumping Joe Dugan, at third.

Speaking of the thrilling three-game set at the Stadium, Stengel added: "And we didn't do a thing to them."

"Tell Casey that we know where to place our infielders," countered Al Lopez.

The Indians this season obviously are out to demonstrate that pitching is, as the pundits long have contended, from 75 to 90 per cent of baseball. Senior Lopez plans to win with pitching depth. It is composed of Wynn, Garcia, Lemon, Don Mossi, Feller, Houtteman, Ray Narleski, Newhouse, Dave Hoskins and Bob Hooper. Bob Feller's comeback is one of the better baseball stories of the year. Rapid Robert may not be as swift as he once was, but he is the fastest 35-year-old you ever laid eyes on and he has the control of the ball that Ed Furgo had in the Open. The old strikeout king, looking little older or worse for wear than he did when he broke in as a kid, won two games on the eastern swing to make it eight and one.

FELLER BOUNCED back to such an extent that Bill Lobe, the ball pen catcher, once more puts sponges in his glove when the creative Iowa farm boy is warming up.

Lopez can throw a good pitcher at the opposition day in and night out with plenty in relief.

Meanwhile, Stengel frankly confesses that he is hurting for pitching. That's why the World Champions called up Bob Wiesler, picked up Marlin Stuart from the Orioles and signed Ralph Branca.

Cowboy Tom Morgan's bad back put a burden on the rest of the staff. Jim McDonald, who injured his groin, can't run yet. Bob Kuzava tore a muscle in his side hitting fungoes. Whitey Ford has become the number one man, but the Yankees would have been in a bad way had not recruit Bob Grim come through a la Native Dancer in the stretch and the venerable Johnny Sain stood up like a fireman putting out a five-alarm.

THIS IS A DEAD GAME Cleveland club.

Playing first base, Rosen tried to spear a ball with the index finger of his throwing hand, and for three weeks, still has to hold the digit away from the bat. Avila suffered a chipped bone in the thumb of his throwing hand when Hank Bauer of the Yankees slid into him, June 2, was sidelined for three weeks.

Bob Lemon has had a lame back and sore side since June 27 when he had to retire after swinging at a ball against the Yankees, and is just getting back into the swing of things. Mike Garcia ruptured a blood vessel in the middle finger of his pitching hand, July 4, and to be employed sparingly and is still not right.

Al Smith, who later pulled a leg muscle, was discovered when Rudy Regalado was kept in the dugout by a charley horse. Early Wynn missed a couple of turns with a bad back. Mickey Grasso has been laid up with a broken leg since spring training. And then there are the line fractures in Strickland's jaw.

"There are a lot of old Orioles on this club," concluded Al Lopez. "I'll never tell you how we limped through June."

"But it convinced me that this outfit will go all the way."

Shells, Pickford's, Palace, AAA Win Kiwanis Games

The Shells barely nudged the Athletic House 5-4, Thursday in Kiwanis league play. In other games Pickford's also won a close, 12-11 decision from Pankey's; Palace slugged out a 19-12 win over Turner's, and the AAA smashed the Sahara Coals, 18-8.

D. Price, pitching for Shells, allowed only two hits. The Shells pushed across the winning run in the last half of the final inning when Alexander hit a two-bagger and scored on an error. Hathaway was the losing pitcher for the Athletic House.

Pickford was the winner and Hagan the loser in the Pickford-Pankey contest.

The Palace nine retained its lead in the Kiwanis league with its win over Turner's. Griffith smashed three hits to lead the winners. Henshaw was the winner and Biggs the loser.

The AAA team got only five hits but made walks and errors pay off in its 18-8 victory over the Sahara Coals. Franz was the winner and Goben the loser.

Durocher-Lockman Spat Typifies Giants' Tension

NEW YORK — The league-leading New York Giants, only three weeks ago a rollicking band of "destiny's tots," were tight-lipped with tension today because of their alarming slump.

A heated spat between Manager Leo Durocher and first baseman Whitely Lockman, in full view of the fans at Thursday's 8-0 loss to the Cardinals, typified the strained nerves on the New York club.

Neither Durocher nor Lockman would explain the basis of their fiery dispute, which occurred at the end of the fifth inning when the manager abruptly removed Lockman from the game. Leo wouldn't even explain why he made the move.

"I have nothing to say about it," he barked in the dressing room. "Go ahead and write what you want to."

Asked if he thought Lockman had not been hustling in recent games, Durocher snapped out an emphatic, "no."

Lockman adopted a cautious attitude and said, "If Durocher won't talk about it, then neither will I." Lockman already had taken his station at first base when Durocher wiggled from the dugout for him to come in. Lockman walked Batou, Rouge, L.A., faced Garrido's brother, Orlando, in the second contest.

The winner of the best-of-five series, which concludes Sunday, will meet the Canada-Mexico survivor for the American zone championship.

Looking AT Sports

We were on vacation earlier this week and caught a glimpse of Little League baseball in action. We've been seeing and hearing much on Little League activities this past summer but hadn't really given it a great deal of thought.

After a first-hand looksee, it's our belief that no summer sports program has so enlisted the public in its scope and interest since the heyday of softball prior to World War II.

Actually, the program isn't a whole lot different than our own Kiwanis league activity, except that it has been set up state and nationwide "for youth." Probably the most noticeable difference is in the colorful aspects of the Little League program.

We saw two Little League diamonds — both having that "big league look" only cut down to "junior size" in every respect. One of the colorful sites — a must we're told in every Little League park — is the outfield fence, of strictly league fashion, boarded from left to right field lines and some four feet in height. Various sections bear the advertisements of sponsoring hometown merchants. Then, too, the team have their own uniforms, sponsors, batboys, mascots, dugouts, etc.

In some places are lights have been rigged for night ball on these little league diamonds. The league of the country take advantage of daylight savings time and stage twilight tiffs. This gets the kids home earlier yet allows "papa" to see his "off-spring" in action.

Large crowds attend these games and the rooting sections differ little from the big leagues. Of course, the players are not as polished, errors are prevalent and hitting erratic, but it is good clean American entertainment. And it really gives the young boys a lift.

We understand that at one Little League park even the collections follow the miniature pattern set by the rest of the operation in that no spectator is to contribute more than a dime!

We were truly amazed by the growth and interest in the Little League program. We have felt personally that the work of the Kiwanis in Harrisburg has been outstanding this past two summers in developing a real, live recreational outlet for young boys. To see it being accomplished with equal success in various sections of the country is indeed encouraging.

If you haven't "sat-in" on a Little League game in a Little League park, don't miss taking advantage of your next opportunity.

Williams Hits 16th Homer As Red Sox Beat Indians; Cardinals Blank Giants, 8-0

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

He's a tired old veteran of his second war and you won't find his name among the American league's leading hitters, but Ted Williams sported a .364 average today to prove he's still the "daddy of all hitters."

What's more, the figures show that the great Boston Red Sox slugger has compiled a higher batting average since his return from Korea last year than he had in his previous 11 campaigns. Since returning from Korea, Ted's average is .378 compared to his lifetime figure of .340 from 1939 through 1952. He hit .407 in 37 games last season.

Williams doesn't appear among the league's leading hitters because he hasn't been "officially at bat" enough times. But he has a nine-point spread over the official leader, Irv Noren of the New York Yankees, and the only thing that can keep him out of the running is the possibility he won't have 400 official at bats by the end of the season.

Hits Homer No. 16

Ted, who crashed homer No. 16 in the Red Sox 10-2 rout of the Cleveland Indians Thursday, has batted 184 times this year and batted out 67 hits that included 11 doubles and drove in 47 runs. Since his return from Korea, Williams has played 96 games in which he blasted 29 homers and knocked in 81 runs.

Williams' 16th homer sent the Red Sox off to a 2-0 first-inning lead Thursday and paved the way for Boston's second victory over the Indians in 16 games this season. It also enabled the New York Yankees to slice the Indians' first-place lead to 1 1/2 games via a 10-0 rout of the Chicago White Sox.

Jensen Homers Twice

Jackie Jensen hit two homers and drove in six runs for the Red Sox while Whitey Ford spun his third shutout and gained his 10th victory of the year for the Yankees behind a 13-hit bombardment. Andy Carey paced the Yankees with three hits and three runs batted in.

In the National League, the New York Giants bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-0, for their seventh loss in eight games but retained their two-game lead when the Chicago Cubs beat the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-3.

Ex-Yankee pitcher Vic Raschi shut out the Giants with three hits behind a 14-hit attack while Hank Bauer's two-run homer and Ernie Sauer's three-run drive-tripper paced the Cubs to their victory. Sauer's homer was No. 30 while Duke Snider hit No. 27 for the Dodgers.

The Detroit Tigers swept the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-2 and 7-3.

And so it was decided. Ricky would drive home. "Roll it outside," Chub said. "We'll give you enough gas to get to a station. Got oil and water?"
"Yeah. But I didn't want gas
while we were carrying it."
"Let's go, then."
"Grab on," Ricky said, tossing
his gold cup on the front seat.
"Ricky," Sharon was still troubled. "Let's wait for the truck."
He laughed and patted her cheek.
"You're still worried about Link.
He won't be anywhere near any parade I lead. And we won't race,
will we, guys?"
"Race?" Jerry repeated, trying to look shocked. "We're DTA members." Still grinning he added seriously. "We won't do anything to gum up the works, Sharon. Don't worry."
The boys laid hands on the little coupe and rolled it toward one of the big doors. Sharon followed, actually pleased that they would drive back. She hadn't ridden in the coupe, and she wanted to know what it was like too.
Before they left, Ricky and Sharon got hamburgers. But neither was able to eat. Ricky took a couple of quick bites and then decided he wasn't hungry.
"You look half-starved," Sharon
said.
"I just can't eat," he said, getting to his feet. "Let's get started."
Ricky drove out of Des Moines
very slowly, with Link, Jerry, Chub and Sherm following. They blew their horns, but not to make him hurry. They wanted everyone to see that they belonged with
the prize-winning little car.
"Runs like a top," Ricky said
to Sharon. "Handles like a dream.
It's a feather. Oh, baby, but I bet it can drag! Some time I'll have to find a place where I can find out what it will really do."

"Not tonight," Sharon cautioned.
"Still worrying? I won't be careless. I've got everything to be careful for now. Why, I'm in business. I really am. I can probably get a bank loan now if I need money. Kid, I've got it made!"
They drove out of Des Moines
on to the open highway. The night was bright and clear, the road
was dry, there was little traffic.
Ricky pressed down on the gas
pedal with just a little pressure.
The coupe picked up like a bird.
It rolled smoothly, easily, without effort, the twin pipes croon-
ing. He glanced at his speedometer. Sixty! It didn't seem possible. He'd thought he was doing 45, at the most. There was that much difference between the new coupe and the old. Maybe that's what new shocks did for it—plus everything else.
He sailed down the smooth white highway behind his lights. It was so easy, so effortless. What a feeling, driving a rod that did everything right. Look at that . . . 70, and he wasn't even trying. It was like something alive. It wanted to go. He couldn't hold it back.

He glanced at Sharon. She looked peaceful, happy and pretty. The ride was so smooth she didn't even know he was hitting 70. If it was that smooth, it couldn't be considered speeding. He looked in his rear-vision mirror. The guys were giving him plenty of room as they trailed him. Nobody was risking a sudden stop and a bump. Good guys! Ricky began to hum.

Granted Divorce

Jane Ames was granted a divorce from Fremont Ames by Judge Clarence E. Wright in circuit court today.

It is estimated that 60 million
people have migrated from Europe
since the beginning of the 19th century.

Sharon looked at him and smiled. "Happy?" she asked.
"So happy I could loop the loop
with this baby."
"You sound happy."
"I've got plenty to be happy for."
"He sang it. 'Mainly you.'"
"Me?"
"You talked me into entering the show after I'd given up."
"I knew you would do a good job, I guess. And it was important not to give up the DTA ideals.
That was a lot of respect for you."
"You did it, though. I was ready to give up and go back to rattling around."
"But you didn't."
"I won't, ever. I'm through with that crazy stuff. When I think of the crazy things I used to do . . .
I was stupid."
Sharon looked and leaned back.
She sighed tired. Ricky smiled and began to sing quietly. He kept glancing at her sweet, relaxed face. Her eyes closed, the long lashes lying darkly against her cheeks. There was a faint smile on her full red mouth. He wanted to lean over and . . .
The lights were moving up on
him. He knew . . . he knew . . .
The lights coming fast, like an arrow aimed at the back of his head.

So this was Link's way. He wanted another of the same . . . bump-ing, the bullying and a fight, so he could use his fists. . . .

It was Link all right, and he was riding inches away from Ricky's
back bumper.

Ricky glanced at Sharon. She was asleep. Tired as she was,
car motion wouldn't wake her.
And once, just once. . . . It would be better than beating Link in a fight. Better than anything. It was the only thing that would cut Link down to size. Ricky knew
now what was missing in his life.
He had accomplished everything,
reached every goal but the one
he had striven for the longest without progress. Once to beat Link
at something!

And this was it. This was the way. The night or day that he ran Link's convertible into the ground, the fight would be won.
His life would be complete. It was all he needed to make everything perfect. Just once, and Link would never dare bother him
again.
